

The Logicalis & Cisco Partnership

Cisco is renowned for improving the way businesses, public sector organisations and individuals around the world communicate and collaborate, and Logicalis has always worked with Cisco at the forefront of this new Cisco driven IP world.

Logicalis has an outstanding partnership with Cisco, and over many years has embraced its most advanced solutions to ensure our customers receive maximum benefit from Cisco's innovation.

Our strategic partnership has the benefit of bringing together leading edge technology products with a proven delivery and services organisation to provide robust, reliable and cost effective solutions to our customer's business needs.

Today, Logicalis maintains the highest level of accreditation and certifications with Cisco on their most significant technology solutions, Unified Communications, Unified Contact Centre, Digital Media System (DMS), and now Cisco Unified Data Centre.

In June 2009, Logicalis became one of the first UK partners accredited as a Data Centre Unified Computing Systems ATP partner, once again demonstrating to our customers a commitment to deliver the highest possible quality of engagement in Cisco's most advanced solutions sets. Cisco changed the way we use IP communications and Logicalis believe that they will have the same impact on the way we design, construct and operate our next generation of Data Centres.

Our professional and lifecycle services teams are also accredited on the entire range of Cisco solutions technologies; IP Communications, Content Networking, VPN Security and Wireless LAN programmes.

As well as being one of the leading UK providers of Cisco Solutions, Logicalis is also an accredited Cisco Powered Managed Services provider, providing a range of managed services offerings that complement and augment our customers own internal technical and operational resources.
