

Critical App Performance and Continuity

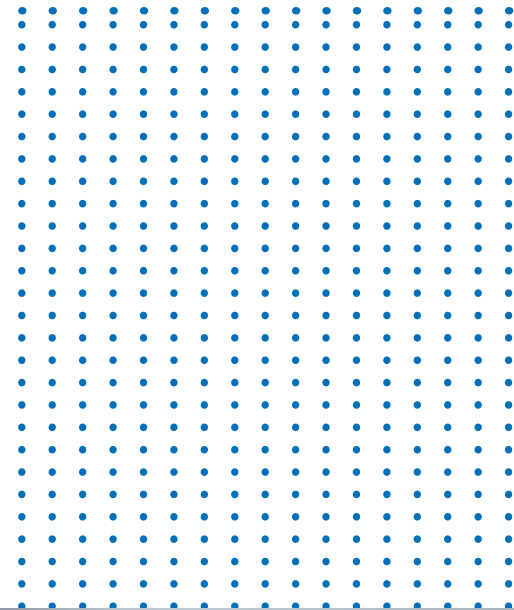

Always Optimised

Many organisations will now be experiencing delays to data centre platform upgrades, due to lack of people, product supply issues and access to data centre sites.

Logicalis UK can help free up existing space on your platforms, monitor key applications so resource can be reallocated, and help you easily expand storage into the cloud.

This will ensure key applications can deliver optimal performance and uptime at a critical time for companies selling online, running major supply chains, or operating critical parts of our public services.

We are currently offering a free-of-charge deployment and assessment of your business-critical environments, so you can understand any hidden code, configuration, resource or performance challenges. Working with AppDynamics, we can implement the software remotely and provide immediate reports on where you might have issues.
